

PingPulse

A WhatsApp sales agent that answers your customers in your shop's voice, around the clock, and keeps every conversation in one place.

START HERE

Three steps, about five minutes

Everything is set up and waiting. The only thing left is telling it which WhatsApp number to answer on – that choice is yours, and you can change it whenever you like.

01 Open your dashboard

Go to pingpulse.duckdns.org/app in any browser and paste the access token we sent you alongside this page. That works on a Mac, a PC, a tablet – anything. On Windows there is also a desktop app, which keeps itself updated and never asks you to reinstall.

02 Connect one WhatsApp channel

In Settings, pick the way you want your customers to reach you.

03 Message it from a different phone

This part matters: send the first message from another number, not the phone you connected. A phone cannot hold a conversation with itself, so borrow a colleague's handset or use a second line.

Watch the reply arrive on the phone and in your dashboard at the same time.

OPTION A • FASTEST

WhatsApp Web

Scan a QR code with the phone you already sell from. Your existing number, your existing chats, nothing to sign up for.

OPTION B

Twilio

Use your own Twilio account and business number. Better if you want the agent on a separate line from your personal one.

Connecting one disconnects the other, on purpose. Replies then always go out on one known number, so there is never a question of which number a customer is talking to.

WHAT IT ALREADY KNOWS

A demo shop, stocked and ready

We loaded a sample catalogue and the policies around it, so the agent has something real to sell from the moment you connect. Prices, stock counts, delivery, payment and returns are all in there.

ITEM	PRICE	STOCK
Aurora SoundPods Pro	$89	42
Aurora SoundPods Lite	$45	110
Nomad 20000mAh Power Bank	$35	76
Halo Smart Desk Lamp	$59	18
Drift Ceramic Coffee Set	$42	33
Aurora Trail Backpack 28L	$69	6 • low

The agent is instructed never to invent a price, a size or a stock level. Ask it for something that isn't on this list and it will tell you it doesn't have it rather than making something up — that restraint is deliberate, and worth testing.

WHAT TO TRY

Things worth sending it

do you have wireless earbuds?

It should offer both SoundPods and quote the real difference between them.

what's the difference between the Pro and the Lite?

Battery life, water resistance, warranty – from the catalogue, not guesswork.

how long does delivery take, and can I pay cash?

Two questions in one message, which is how people actually write.

do you sell washing machines?

The interesting one. It should say no rather than invent a product.

Then stop replying for a moment and schedule a follow-up on that conversation from the dashboard – pick two minutes, and watch the nudge arrive on the phone. If the customer writes back first, the follow-up cancels itself.

READING THE DASHBOARD

Every message carries its own status

You never have to wonder whether something actually reached the customer. Each reply the agent sends shows one of three states, live.

SENT	It reached WhatsApp. This is the normal case.
QUEUED	WhatsApp was briefly unreachable, so the message is held and retried automatically. It is not lost, and nothing is presented as delivered when it isn't.

FAILED

It could not be delivered and will not be retried — for example a number that WhatsApp refuses. Rare, and always visible rather than silent.

SINCE THE LAST TIME YOU SAW IT

What we improved

Nothing gets lost

If WhatsApp drops for a few seconds, replies queue and go out by themselves instead of disappearing.

The dashboard keeps up

Replies, follow-ups and delivery states all appear the moment they happen, without refreshing.

Works on a Mac

The full dashboard now runs in a browser, identical to the desktop app rather than a cut-down version.

One number, no ambiguity

Connecting a WhatsApp method disconnects the other, so replies always go out on the number you chose.

Messages reach the right chat

We fixed an addressing fault where a reply looked sent on our side but never arrived on the customer's phone.

Scheduled follow-ups

Nudge a quiet conversation in your own words, at a time you choose — and it cancels if they write back.

Updates arrive on their own

The desktop app updates itself on launch. No reinstalling, no downloading anything twice.

Your workspace is yours

Your conversations and catalogue are separate from every other account on the system, enforced at the server.

WE WANT TO HEAR IT

Found something broken?

Please tell us — genuinely. This is a demo precisely so you can push at it before it matters, and an odd reply or a message that lands strangely is useful to us.

Send us the conversation, or just the time it happened and roughly what you asked. We read the real exchange, fix what went wrong, and use that context to make the agent better at your kind of customer.

What a full setup includes

What you have here is deliberately a sample shop, so you can judge the conversation. A full engagement is built around your actual business:

- Your complete business profile, set up with you
- Prompting tuned to how you sell, not a template
- Your real product catalogue, prices and stock
- Your tone of voice, matched properly
- Full WhatsApp access across your conversations – not only the number that happened to message us
- A personalised website for your business
- Social media presence, plus marketing AI that works your channels

All of it bundled together, so the agent, the site and the marketing are telling your customers the same story.

Connect a channel, message it from another phone, and see how it handles your customers. Anything at all feels off – tell us, and we'll fix it.
